Praeses Hires New Vice President of Marketing

SHREVEPORT, LOUISIANA – October 30, 2012 – Praeses, a national leader in providing trusted information management, technology consulting, and software development, announced today that Michael Chin, former COO at Network Foundation Technologies, has joined Praeses as the Vice President of Marketing. In this role, Chin will create and lead the overall marketing and product management strategy at Praeses.

"We are very excited to have Michael join our team," says Kempton Schwab, President. "He brings with him a wealth of marketing experience, including developing successful marketing strategies and launching new products. I have no doubt that his expertise will lead Praeses to new levels of success."

For over three decades, Michael's focus has been in high technology, including startup and entrepreneurial companies. His senior management experience spans the complete product life-cycle from conception, development, sales, deployment and support for companies such as Apple, Inc., where he served as World Wide Director of Sales Systems and Process.

Michael holds a degree in Science and Business Administration from California State University at Long Beach.
